

The Human Psyche!

The body-psyche is a magic tapestry of consciousness, woven from seven psychic centres, based upon vibrational octaves. This octet tapestry, becomes the basis for our journeys of life.

Upon these octaves, the human body forms as a 'genie's bottle' of psyche, a bottle we enter within our mother's womb, entering through the fontanelle, the opening at the crown of the head, as a plume of pure consciousness. We then descend the spine, until we reach wisdom-heart, where we dwell, awaiting our birth!

At birth, we find ourselves cast in a great arc of psychic destiny, falling through the front of the heart in a descent to the feet, where we draw upon ourselves, a shroud of forgetfulness, the dreaming nature of the personal self. We must then begin the individual journey, ascending through the psychic centres, until we return to wisdom-heart.

In the early stages of this journey, we will exist within the fields of pleasure and pain, of life and death, but when we reach wisdom-heart, we will experience ourselves as pure Spirit.

This state is a Witnessing Self, no longer trapped in identity with the changing fields of consciousness, a Self free from the tenacious clasp of the five primal chains of incarnation. These chains are forgetfulness, the loss into sexual polarity, the entrapment at the woundings of childhood and sex and pride, the identity with the personal mind, and the dwelling beneath the ego structure at the liver.

We can then effortlessly ascend to the crown, and reunite, with Diamond-mind, the state of 'I AM', a state independent, from the appearance, and disappearance, of the manifest universe!
